Fashion

France is the world’s standard-setter in high fashion. Jeanne Lanvin, Christian Dior, Coco Chanel, Pierre Balmain, Yves Saint-Laurent, Sonia Rykiel, Christian Lacroix, and Jean-Paul Gaultier are just a few of the French couturiers known around the world. Paris’s fashion shows (Fashion Week, Who’s Next...) and presentations of collections have an international aura, attracting journalists and notables from all over the world, year after year.

High fashion certainly stimulates the imagination, but opportunities are relatively limited. By contrast, they are much more numerous in the fields of ready-to-wear clothing and accessories. And luxury goods could not exist were it not for many supporting skills, occupations, and trades. From the nimble stitcher to the workshop director, many professionals help designers bring their vision to life.

Heirs to a long manufacturing tradition, France’s textile and apparel industries are today oriented toward innovation, design, and commercialization, offering a wide array of careers for qualified people. Openings may be rare in the area of creation (stylists, collection directors), but model makers, fabric designers, production managers, and sales and marketing specialists are in high demand.

Thanks to technical innovation, textile firms are involved in many different sectors—among them medicine, automobiles, sports, and home furnishings.

International

French fashion sense and the label “made in France” have been internationally renowned since the mid-nineteenth century.

Many foreign designers have made their reputations in France among them Azzedine Alaïa, Charles Frederick Worth, Alexander McQueen, Paco Rabanne, Issey Miyake, John Galliano, Rei Kawakubo, Yohji Yamamoto, Kenzo Takada, and Karl Lagerfeld.

Driven by their creative needs and drawn by the capital of culture and elegance and by France’s freedoms, foreign designers continue to contribute to the quality and renown of French haute couture and ready-to-wear, sustaining Paris as the world’s fashion capital. The museum of the history of immigration in Paris honored these foreign creators with a 2015 exhibition entitled “Fashion Mix”.

43% of sales in fashion and luxury goods sectors are for export (70% in high-end ready-to-wear; 80% in haute couture)

€400 million annual minimum financial benefit to Paris from fashion events (2018)

€34 billion in fashion industry sales (2018)

130,000 jobs in fashion (2018)

9,048 companies active in clothing and apparel (2019)

14% foreign students enrolled in Higher Education Culture (2019)
