France has long had a major presence on the world musical scene. In 1669, Louis XIV founded the Royal Academy of Music, and, since the 19th century, Paris has been a major concert venue for the greatest piano virtuosoi of Europe (Liszt, Chopin, others). In the second half of the century, France was the world’s leading venue for lyric opera. In 1966, seven years after André Malraux became France’s first minister of culture, an office of music was created under the leadership of Marcel Landowski, whose support for the popularization of music bore fruit (in June 1982) in the form of the first Fête de la Musique, which has since spread to 120 countries and 350 cities.

Musicians are trained in conservatories at the regional, departmental, and communal levels. Only two conservatories are national: the national conservatories of music and dance in Paris and Lyon. Arts Education Clusters are also accredited by the Ministry of Culture to confer degrees. The clusters operate in partnership with conservatories, universities, centers for the training of music and dance teachers, and centers for higher education in music and dance. The programs offered by the clusters are harmonized with the European degree system (bachelor, master, doctorate). Admission decisions are made by individual institutions. Certain private schools grant credentials that are listed in the French national registry of occupational certifications (RNCP).

Depending on their training and their instrument, musicians and singers may choose the stage (orchestra, ensemble, or soloist), the recording studio (film scores, advertising, etc.), or the classroom. Age requirements vary with instruments, levels, and specializations.

International

Claude Debussy, Hector Berlioz, Pierre Boulez, Pierre Henry, Maurice Ravel, Erik Satie - these are just a few of the French musicians who have set rather than followed trends. Many French musicians and composers are recognized abroad for their unique musical mark, among them Michel Petrucciani, Pierre Boulez, Daft Punk, Air, Indila, Woodkid, Matthieu Chédid and Olivia Nicolas... Over the past 20 years, France's Export Bureau has launched and supported the international careers of more than 300 French artists and professionals.

Countless foreign musicians have lived in France while pursuing an international career. Examples include Frederick Chopin (Poland), Jacques Offenbach (Germany), Yuri Boukoff (Bulgaria), Joel Cohen (United States), Ayo (Nigeria), Feist (Canada), Stromae (Belgium), and Ibrahim Maalouf (Lebanon).

Rebecca Tong (China) won the first prize of the Maestra, Competition International Conductors, organized by the Philharmonie de Paris and the Paris Mozart Orchestra for the first edition in September 2020.

Music festivals, supported by the national Ministry of Culture and local governments, have gained national and international recognition. They illustrate France’s musical diversity: classical, baroque, jazz, rock, electronic, metal, and so on. Examples include the International opera festival in Aix-en-Provence, the Musica creative festival in Strasbourg, Folle Journée (crazy day) in Nantes, the Ambronay and Beaune festivals, the Chorégies d’Orange, and, for contemporary music, the Printemps de Bourges, the Francofolies in La Rochelle, the Hellfest in Clisson, and the Transmusicales in Rennes.
