ECAM LOUIS DE BROGLIE

Founded in 1991 on the Ker Lann campus near Rennes, ECAM Louis de Broglie is a small private engineering school with around 600 students. Recognized for its public interest mission since 2016 through the EESPIG qualification, the school has also been awarded the Happy At School® label since 2020.

Through diverse experiences and personalized support, ECAM Louis de Broglie prepares students to be the industrial pioneers of tomorrow, ready to lead the transitions of tomorrow.

◆ MAIN PROGRAMMES OF STUDY

ECAM Louis de Broglie is a graduate engineering school that provides training tailored to both student needs and professional expectations.

The school currently offers three degrees accredited by the CTI (national accrediting agency):

- General Engineering [full-time program - entry at high school and post-secondary levels]
- Industrial Engineering [apprenticeship program - entry at post-secondary level]
- Digital Systems for Industrial Innovation [apprenticeship program - entry at post-secondary level]

◆ RESEARCH

Scientific research is a strategic focus for ECAM Louis de Broglie, strengthening its ties with businesses and public or private research institutions. Conducted in collaboration with the industry, our research addresses industrial challenges and contributes to the development of expertise.

Research at ECAM also ensures that our engineering students receive training aligned with economic realities and future industrial technologies, while providing our faculty with a platform to develop their skills.

◆ STRENGTHS

- International focus and mobility (61 partner universities)
- Nearly 90 career path options in the final year
- 100% employability within 6 months of graduation

- Strong human values and active involvement in student life
- Cutting-edge laboratories and equipment
- Support and promotion of entrepreneurship (incubator, etc.)
- Vibrant student life with more than 16 associations
- An attractive campus conducive to academic success: peaceful, green surroundings, and nearby student residences

◆ LOCATION

ECAM Louis de Broglie is located on the Ker Lann campus, a 170-hectare park in Bruz, just outside Rennes. This exceptional natural setting hosts higher education institutions, professional training organizations, and innovative companies.

This proximity encourages collaboration and partnerships between research, education, and industry. The Ker Lann campus is a unique technopolitan hub in Rennes, thanks to its mix of academic institutions and businesses.

Rennes is home to nearly 200,000 residents and welcomes over 67,000 students each year, spread across three campuses and around 50 higher education schools. Recently voted the most livable city in France, Rennes is also one of the country's top student cities.

Rennes is situated just 45 minutes from the coast and 90 minutes from Paris.
