ADCUEFE

The Campus-FLE network of ADCUEFE, the association of the directors of university centers of French studies for foreign students, is a professional group of 38 French university centers for French as a foreign language. Every year, thousands of teachers of French come to the network's centers for training in the teaching of French as a foreign language. The network's expert teachers carry out some 300 custom training missions every year. As globalization progresses and exchanges accelerate, ADCUEFE's Campus-FLE network and the HERACLES world forum are active participants in the global dialogue on language and culture.

◆ MAIN PROGRAMMES OF STUDY

The language centers of the Campus-FLE network offer courses at all levels in language, literature, civilization, and French for special purposes (business, diplomacy, academics, and the sciences), as provided in the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages (CEFR). Certificates and degrees attest to students' acquisition of those competencies. ADCUEFE offers 6 credentials:

- Certificates that attest to the achievement of levels A1 and A2 of the CEFR (basic speaker)
- University diplomas: DUEF A1 - DUEF A2 - DUEF B1 - DUEF B2 - DUEF C1 - DUEF C2

◆ STRENGTHS

Students enjoy the benefits of a stimulating university environment that facilitates linguistic and cultural immersion. The centers of the Campus-FLE offer courses at all levels in language, literature, civilization, and French for special purposes (business, diplomacy, academics, and the sciences). ADCUEFE participates in a quality assurance program that encompasses student services as well as instructors' qualifications, program content, and center management.

◆ LOCATION

ADCUEFE centers are located throughout France. See the map at www.campus-FLE.fr.
