ISRP

INSTITUT SUPÉRIEUR DE RÉÉDUCATION PSYCHOMOTRICE

The Institut Supérieur de Rééducation Psychomotrice, founded in 1967, is dedicated to the basic and continuing training of psychomotricians and French and foreign professionals in the sociomedical and educational field.

◆ MAIN PROGRAMMES OF STUDY

Psychomotor therapy

◆ RESEARCH

Since its foundation, the institute has been open to foreign countries. Its center of excellence in the domain of human sciences (ISRP is behind the creation of the French State diploma of Psychomotor therapist) has earned it, for many years, wide recognition, evidenced by the numerous exchange programs and partnerships with European and South American universities and institutes. Besides its participation in various research projects, the teaching team (professional and academic) takes part very actively in international forums (regional and global conferences) as well as national and international publications. This is especially the case in the Organisation Internationale de Psychomotricité et de Relaxation, of which it is a founding member.

◆ STRENGTHS

ISRP has developed exceptional expertise in the domain of rehabilitative, therapeutic, and educative psychomotricity, developing a genuinely welcoming culture for foreign students. To achieve this the following are placed at their disposal: an international library of monographs and reviews, a computer center with free access, and individual advising and support.
