

LE HAVRE

UNIVERSITÉ LE HAVRE NORMANDIE

Created in 1984, the Université du Havre has almost 8,200 students enrolled in three teaching and research faculties, a university institute of technology (IUT), and a school of engineering in logistics. The university offers comprehensive programs in four sectors: law: economics, management, and commerce: humanities and social sciences, letters, and languages: science and technology. Visiting professionals complement the teaching provided by a permanent faculty of 500. 12 foreign languages are offered, including 6 Asian languages.

◆ MAIN PROGRAMMES OF STUDY

Most of the academic and professional programs of the Université du Havre have an international dimension either bilingual instruction, a language requirement, or long-term international internships. Among the university's programs are international trade: international banking and finance: transport and logistics: international law: maritime and port law: port and coastal engineering: regional development: chemistry and cosmetics: environment and biology: engineer in logistics and engineering.

◆ RESEARCH

The scientific potential of the university rests on 12 laboratories working in four broad areas: humanities and social sciences, chemistry-biology, mathematics-computer science, and engineering sciences.

◆ STRENGTHS

Students are housed in cités universitaires managed by the regional student-service agency (CROUS) or in private residences. An intensive (60 hours) course in French as a foreign language course is offered in September. Specialized courses are offered in the course of the year.

◆ LOCATION

International students are welcomed at an orientation program in October. Many other events take place during the year. Located in Normandy (about 110 miles from Paris in northwest France), Le Havre is the second-largest port in France.
